General

This publication discusses the rules, including the electronic filing (e-file) mandate, that are applicable to tax return preparers of New York State personal income tax returns (including partnership and fiduciary returns).

For additional information that may be of interest to you as a preparer, see the Practitioners page on the Tax Department's Web site (www.nystax.gov) and Publication 3, A Guidebook of Resources For Tax Practitioners.

Tax return preparer defined

Tax Law section 658(g)(5)

For personal income tax purposes, a tax return preparer (preparer) is any person who prepares any return or claim for refund for compensation, or who employs or engages anyone to prepare any return or claim for refund for compensation.

Requirements for tax return preparers

Tax Law section 658(g)

A preparer must comply with certain requirements with respect to income tax returns and claims for refund prepared by the preparer. A preparer must:

- E-file returns if certain criteria are met (see Electronic filing (e-file) mandate for tax return preparers on page 6).
- Sign the income tax return or refund claim (see Signature requirements on page 8).
- Include the identifying number of the preparer on the income tax return or claim for refund. If an individual preparer is an employee of a preparer or is a partner in a partnership that is a preparer, the income tax return or claim for refund must also include the identifying number of the employer or partnership.
- Furnish a completed copy of the income tax return or claim for refund to the taxpayer not later than the time that the return or claim for refund is presented for the taxpayer's signature.
- Keep a completed copy of the income tax return or claim for refund for each taxpayer, or keep a list of the name and identification number of each taxpayer for whom a return or claim for refund was prepared. The completed copy of the return or claim for refund, or the list, must be available for inspection by the Tax Department upon request. The completed copy of the return or the list must be kept for a period of three years after the due date of the return (without regard to extensions) or three years after the date the return was presented to the taxpayer for signature, whichever is later. The completed copy of the claim for refund or the list must be kept for a period of three years from the time the claim for refund was presented to the taxpayer for signature.

Electronic filing

E-file uses computer software or an internet application to file income tax returns electronically.

To participate in the New York State e-file program, a preparer must

- be an electronic return originator (ERO) authorized to e-file returns with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), and
- use software that has been approved for e-file by the New York State Tax Department.

A preparer who is not currently an authorized electronic return originator (ERO), should access the IRS Web site (www.irs.gov) and apply online through the IRS e-services for tax professionals.

For detailed information on New York State's e-file program, access the Tax Department's e-file Web page (www.nystax.gov/elf).

Electronic filing
(e-file) mandate for tax return preparers
Tax Law section 658(g)(10)

The Tax Law requires many preparers to e-file their clients' tax returns. The law applies to returns required to be filed under Article 22 of the Tax Law (the personal income tax law) that the Commissioner of Taxation and Finance has authorized to be filed electronically.

For calendar years beginning on or after January 1, 2007, a preparer must e-file if the preparer

- prepared more than 100 New York State original tax returns during any calendar year beginning on or after January 1, 2006, and
- uses tax preparation software to prepare one or more New York State authorized tax returns in any succeeding calendar year.

Additionally, effective for tax years beginning January 1, 2006, and after, a preparer who completes Form IT-370, Application for Automatic Six-Month Extension of time to File for Individuals, must e-file that form with the Tax Department if the preparer is required to e-file the taxpayer's New York State personal income tax return for that year. If a preparer is using software that does not support the e-filing of the extension, the preparer must file the extension directly on the New York State Tax Department Web site (www.nystax.gov).

Once a preparer is subject to the e-file mandate, the preparer must continue to e-file all of his/her clients' authorized personal income tax returns in all future years regardless of the number of returns filed.

An original tax return is a tax return required under Article 22 of the Tax Law that is filed during the calendar year for which that return is required to be filed.

An authorized tax return is any return required by Article 22 of the Tax Law that the Tax Department has authorized to be filed electronically. For calendar year 2007, the Tax Department has authorized the e-filing of individual personal income tax returns and extensions only.

Visit our Web site (www.nystax.gov) for additional information on the e-file mandate.

Filing due dates

Calendar year personal income tax returns for tax year 2006 may be filed after January 1, 2007, but no later than April 16, 2007 (April 17, 2007, if the taxpayer's federal return is filed at the IRS Service Center in Andover, MA).

Fiscal year income tax returns must file by the 15th day of the fourth month following the end of the taxpayer's fiscal year.

Automatic six-month extension of time to file

File Form IT-370, Application for Automatic Six-Month Extension of Time to File for Individuals, or Form IT-370-PF, Application for Automatic Six-Month Extension of Time to File for Partnerships and Fiduciaries, on or before the due date of the taxpayer's return, along with full payment of any tax due (if applicable), to get an automatic extension of time to file a New York State personal income tax return.

Form IT-370 and Form IT-370-PF automatically extend the due date of the taxpayer's return for six months. If Form IT-370 or Form IT-370-PF is filed on or before April 16, 2007 (April 17, 2007, if the taxpayer's federal return is filed at the IRS Service Center in Andover, MA), the due date of the return will be extended to October 15, 2007.

Form IT-370 and Form IT-370-PF may be filed online using the Tax Department Web site (www.nystax.gov), electronically (e-file), or by US mail.

Individual taxpayers who expect to receive a refund or anticipate having no amount of New York State, New York City, or Yonkers income tax due, or no sales or use tax remaining unpaid as of the due date of the return, can file a copy of federal Form 4868, Application for Automatic Extension of Time to File U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, instead of Form IT-370. A copy of the federal extension must be attached when the taxpayer's New York State return is filed.

Note: If a preparer is required to e-file a taxpayer's personal income tax return, the preparer is required to e-file the taxpayer's Form IT-370, if applicable. See Electronic filing (e-file) mandate for tax return preparers, on page 6 of this publication.

Signature requirements

Paper returns

A preparer may manually sign original returns, amended tax returns, and claims for refund. As an alternative, the preparer may sign by means of a rubber stamp, mechanical device, or computer software program. These alternative methods of signing must include either a facsimile of the individual preparer's signature or the individual preparer's printed name. A preparer using one of these alternatives is personally responsible for affixing the signature to the returns or claims for refund.

A preparer who uses alternative methods of signing must provide all of the other preparer information that is required on the tax returns and claims for refund, such as the name, address, and relevant employer identification number. In addition, a preparer must provide the same identification number used for federal personal income tax purposes (social security number or preparer tax identification number (PTIN)). If a federal income tax return is not required, a preparer must use the preparer's PTIN unless the preparer does not have one; otherwise, the preparer must use the preparer's social security number.

Electronically filed (e-file) returns

In the case of e-filed returns and claims for refund, a preparer must enter a tax practitioner personal identification number (PIN) to electronically sign state returns and claims for refund. Preparers can use the same PIN for federal and New York State returns. In addition, Form TR-579, New York State e-file Signature Authorization for Tax Year 2006, must be signed by the taxpayer(s) and the preparer. Form TR-579 must be retained by the preparer for three years.

If there is no tax due on an e-filed extension, there is no signature requirement for the taxpayer or the preparer.

If there is tax due with an e-filed extension, and the extension is e-filed using tax preparation software, the taxpayer(s) must pay the balance due by authorizing an electronic funds withdrawal using Form TR-579.1, New York State Taxpayer Authorization for Electronic Funds Withdrawal for Tax Year 2006 Form IT-370. Form TR-579.1 will establish that the taxpayer(s) has authorized the electronic return originator (ERO) to include the information necessary for the Tax Department to initiate the withdrawal. The ERO is not required to sign Form TR-579 for an extension; however, the ERO must retain a copy for three years.

If there is tax due with an e-filed extension, the preparer may file the extension directly on the Tax Department Web site (www.nystax.gov) to allow the taxpayer the following payment options:

- Check or Money Order
- Credit Card
- Electronic Funds Withdrawal

Privacy and confidentiality

The Tax Law contains strict secrecy requirements to protect the confidentiality of tax returns and tax return information. Consequently, a taxpayer must give specific written authorization to a practitioner, paid preparer or other representative before they will be given access to a taxpayer's confidential records or be allowed to represent a taxpayer before the Tax Department.

Third-party designee

If a taxpayer wants to authorize a preparer to discuss their 2006 tax return with the New York State Tax Department, the taxpayer must check the Yes box in the Third-party designee area of his or her return and enter the information requested.

If the taxpayer marks the Yes box, the taxpayer(s) is authorizing the Tax Department to discuss with the third-party designee any questions that arise during the processing of his or her return. The taxpayer is also authorizing the designee to

- give the Tax Department any information that is missing from the return;
- call the Tax Department for information about the processing of the return or the status of the refund or payment(s); and
- respond to certain Tax Department notices that the taxpayer(s) shares with the designee about math errors, offsets, and return preparation. The Tax Department will not send notices to the designee.

Taxpayers are not authorizing the designee to receive any refund check, bind the taxpayer to anything (including additional tax liability), or otherwise represent the taxpayer before the Tax Department. If a taxpayer(s) wants the designee to perform those services, the taxpayer should file Form POA-1, Power of Attorney (see below).

Power of attorney

A power of attorney is evidence that a practitioner or other person may act on behalf of a taxpayer. The power of attorney must contain explicit authorization for the practitioner to act for the taxpayer, and must be properly completed and signed.

The Tax Department prefers that preparers use Form POA-1, Power of Attorney, but will accept other forms if they contain all the necessary elements. Form POA-1 may be used for New York State tax matters, New York City tax matters, or both.

Form DTF-505, Authorization for Release of Photocopies of Tax Returns and/or Tax Information

Taxpayers can use Form DTF-505 to authorize the Tax Department to release specific items of tax information to a preparer without a power of attorney. Such authorization includes the following:

- the taxpayer's name, identification number, and address
- the specific reference to the year and tax type of the return, report, application, etc., to be released (a fee of twenty-five cents per page may apply)
- the name and address of the individual to whom the information is to be released
- the taxpayer's properly authorized signature

Penalties

Failure to conform to certain requirements

Tax Law section 685(u)

A penalty of $50 per return or claim for refund (maximum penalty of $25,000) may be assessed against a preparer for failure to (1) sign an income tax return or claim for refund, (2) include the identifying number of the preparer on the income tax return or claim for refund, (3) furnish a completed copy of the income tax return or claim for refund to the taxpayer, and (4) keep a copy or list of the income tax return or claim for refund. (See Requirements for tax return preparers on page 5.)

Failure to file electronically

Tax Law section 685(u)(5)

A penalty of $50 for each return that is not e-filed may be assessed against a preparer subject to the e-file mandate, unless the failure to e-file is due to reasonable cause. Reasonable cause includes, but is not limited to, your client's election not to e-file his or her return. (See Form IT-800, Opt-Out Record for Tax Practitioners.)

Aiding or assisting in the giving of
fraudulent returns,
reports, statements,
or other documents

Tax Law section 685(r)

A penalty of $5,000 may be assessed against a preparer for aiding or assisting in the giving of fraudulent returns, reports, statements or other documents.

Understatement of liability

Tax Law section 685(aa)

A penalty of up to $1,000 will be imposed upon a preparer if

- (1) any part of any understatement of liability with respect to any return or claim for refund is due to a position for which there is not or was not a reasonable belief that the tax treatment in that position was more likely than not the proper treatment;
- (2) the preparer with respect to the return or claim knew or reasonably should have known of that position; and

- (3) the position taken was not disclosed as provided in Tax Law section 685(p), or there was no reasonable basis for the tax treatment of that position.

The penalty of up to $1,000 will not be imposed if it is shown that there is reasonable cause for the understatement and the preparer acted in good faith.

A penalty of up to $5,000 will be imposed upon the preparer if any understatement of liability with respect to any return or claim for refund is due to a willful attempt to understate the liability for tax or any reckless or intentional disregard of rules or regulations by the preparer.

An understatement of liability means any understatement of the net amount payable with respect to any tax imposed under Article 22, or any overstatement of the net amount of credit or refund with respect to any such tax. The preparer penalty imposed under Tax Law section 685(aa) will not apply if the penalty under Tax Law section 685(r) is imposed on the preparer with respect to such understatement.
